Journal for Sports Law, Policy and Governance

North-East Students for Furtherance of International Law

The JSLPG (Journal of Sports Law, Policy and Governance) will be a student-edited, peer-reviewed open-access journal published under the aegis of North-East Students for the Furtherance of International Law (NESFIL), an International Law Students Association (ILSA) in collaboration with National Law University, Assam. The JSLPG will be published bi-annually (May and December) in the niche area of International Sports Law, Policy and Governance. The JSLPG would be the first and the only journal in India of its type to encourage the study of Sports Law in the light of Policy, Governance and other allied issues. Manuscripts are invited from practitioners, academicians, students and other stakeholders in the similar area of study. The Journal will maintain an august Editorial Panel of International Sports Law experts.

The Journal aims to highlight the critical issues affecting the formulation, regulation and implementation of the law and policy affecting the sports in present times. The JSLPG will focus on contemporary issues relating to sports law with a comparative approach but quality research work on any significant issue concerning the aspect of sports law and policy would be welcomed.

The editorial board will also organize several events to promote interest and scholarship in the field of Sports law in addition to the publication of this journal. This would include colloquiums, an annual essay competition and a quiz series. We are an equitable and gender-neutral organization. In line with the organization's traditional policy of promoting gender equality, female academics and/or practitioners are particularly encouraged to send their proposals.

NESFIL

NESFIL is a constituent chapter of International Law Students Association at National Law University, Assam established with the aim to foster "International Law" across the North-East region as an important study of law. NESFIL, as the name suggests was initiated with the purpose of bringing easy accessibility to resources essential for scholars, academicians and students alike. NESFIL will be organizing events and conducting activities round the year through which we can highlight the importance of International legal studies and help students build a strong relationship with the legal fraternity. The NESFIL team continuously work to put forward quality resources such as journals, blogs and newsletters for students, academicians, scholars and journalists. NESFIL or North East Students for the Furtherance of International Law will be aiming to conduct activities such as Moot Courts and Essay Competitions to not only promote International Law and its subject areas such as Space Law, Humanitarian Law, Maritime Law, Air Law, Human Rights Law, Environment Law etc. but to spread the awareness of International Law in institutes all around the North-East Region. As an organization, ILSA and NESFIL as its chapter aims at promoting awareness and understanding of international law and other related issues among the student community all over the world.

And the same goal is expected to be reached via the means of various activities, such as academic conferences, publications, blogs, and the administration of the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition. Through the means of such interactive activities the NESFIL chapter as an independent and as well as being a member of the larger picture, i.e. ILSA (International Law Students Association), aims at educating the students and lawyers around the world in the principles and purposes of international law, international organizations and institutions, and comparative legal systems.

At NESFIL, with the specific and focused aim of working in promoting the awareness regarding the principles of International Law in the North-East Region, the team members and the chapter as a student entity, with time, would incorporate newer means and methods so as to organize newer activities and events, which aid us in achieving our goals.
